
Chilling Surprises Take Place At Swank Farms Every Day

Swank Farms is famous for the delicious, field-fresh produce they grow and for their sensational Halloween-style family attraction. This year marks the 15th anniversary of the popular Swank Farms corn maze and haunted amusement "Terror in the Corn," which attracts people from all over California. During the day, the maze offers a challenging adventure through 25 acres of corn. The challenge? Find the 27 signs scattered throughout the maze, each providing a missing piece of the story. Once all 27 signs are found, you will know the story of "Maniac Maze." Bonnie Swank designs each maze and writes the continuous story. Nearby, the pumpkin patch is filled with pumpkins of all shapes and colors and the Pumpkin Sling Shot is just plain fun! Shoot corn from a cannon, jump on the Giant Jumping Pillow or ride Pedal Karts. The Kiddy Corral is a place where younger children can explore Spookley Maze, Chalkboard House, Corn Box, Fishing for Goats and more.

They also will enjoy meandering through the corn on the Cow Train, discovering 12-foot dinosaurs along the way. As night falls, the Kiddy Corral closes and a chill of the unknown can be felt as the gates of the haunted "Terror in the Corn" open. Last year aliens known as the "Universal Federation of Planets" landed on parcel 450, located in the corn field at Swank Farms. Unfortunately a terrible virus plaguing their early occupation caused many deformities and deaths. The UCFP has assured us they were able to quickly overcome the side effects and have offered to share their technology with us. With hopes for a better universe, they respectfully insist you join them this October, if you dare. For updates and offers, follow Swank Farms on Facebook and at www.SwankFarms.com and come to the attraction in Hollister. It is on now through October 31. 🍁
